P R E F A C E.

THIS is the Twenty-ninth Edition of our SCOTTISH DIRECTORY AND GAZETTEER, and we have again to tender sincere thanks to our numerous Subscribers and Friends for the steadily increased patronage which, from year to year, has been accorded to the work.

Several important new Sections are now embodied in the Directory. These include a complete List of the Magistrates, Councillors, and Officials for every Municipal and Police Burgh in Scotland, Shopkeepers' Half-Holidays, Weekly Markets, etc. Amongst the other miscellaneous information are included Municipal, Clerical, and Medical Lists for Edinburgh, Glasgow, Aberdeen, and Dundee; Justices of the Peace for the Cities of Edinburgh and Glasgow; Officers of State, Lords-Lieutenant, Sheriffs, Procurators-Fiscal, and Judges of the Supreme Courts of Scotland; Members of Parliament; British Consuls and Vice-Consuls in Foreign Countries; Masonic Officials in Scotland; Railway Officials, etc.

Since the last edition was issued, the Directory has undergone a complete and thorough revision, and it is confidently hoped that mistakes are both few and unimportant. For any errors of omission, or inaccuracy, however, we must plead the indulgence of our patrons in view of the comprehensive nature of the work.

In the process of compilation and bringing up to date of the present edition of the Directory, a large number of names have been added to its lists, our agents having visited every City, Town, and Village in Scotland to verify, by personal application, every name it contains.

By the adoption of the most approved methods, and the latest machinery, we are enabled to issue our Directory at less than half the price usually charged for similar publications. The price to Subscribers (i.e., ordered before publication) remains 12s. 6d. as hitherto; Colonial and Foreign Subscribers are charged 5s. extra to cover additional cost of carriage, etc.

THE COUNTY DIRECTORY.

A County Supplement is now issued, and can be had bound together with the "SCOTTISH DIRECTORY AND GAZETTEER." This Supplement forms an exhaustive Directory of the Nobility, Gentry, and Private Residents, also County Councillors, Professional Gentlemen, and Farmers throughout Scotland, and is issued at the price of 7s. 6d. extra; or may be had bound separately, price 8s. 6d.

In offering our best thanks to all those who have kindly assisted us, directly or through our representatives, with information, we wish to state that any suggestion likely to increase the usefulness of the work will have our respectful consideration. It will be our earnest and constant endeavour in future editions, by accuracy of detail, completeness of information, and the introduction of new features, to merit the continued confidence of the public.

THIS comprehensive Publication is the largest Directory in the English Language, and contains the Names and Addresses of more Manufacturers, Merchants, Traders, Shippers, Brokers, Agents, Dealers, and others connected with English Trade and Commerce than any other Directory issued from the Press. It includes copious and authentic lists of the Professions, Trades, and Businesses of upwards of Six Thousand Cities, Towns, Villages, and Localities, in England and Wales, the Isle of Man, and the Channel Islands. Every Name considered of sufficient importance for a wholesale house to solicit custom from, being entered. The mass of information it embraces is not otherwise obtainable without an expenditure of over £40 on Local and County Directories; and as many of these are issued at intervals of several years, their information cannot be so recent and reliable as that given in a work like the ENGLISH DIRECTORY AND GAZETTEER, which is kept standing in type (reducing errors to a minimum), and revised and printed annually, and issued to Subscribers at £1, 10s.—a price much less than is usually charged for the Directory of a single English County.

The First Volume of the Work consists of a Trades' Directory of LONDON, and about Three Hundred and Twenty Suburban Districts, giving authentic lists of the Professions, Trades, and Businesses of the Metropolis. It also contains a separate and exhaustive Trades Directory for each of the principal Provincial Cities and Towns, arranged as under. (Also a BANK DIRECTORY of England and Wales.)

BIRMINGHAM	CARDIFF	LEEDS	NEWCASTLE	PORTSMOUTH	South Shields
Blackburn	Derby	LEICESTER	Northampton	Preston	Stockport
Bolton	Devonport	LIVERPOOL and	NORWICH	Reading	Sunderland
BRADFORD	Gateshead	Birkenhead	NOTTINGHAM	Rochdale	Swansea
BRIGHTON	Halifax	MANCHESTER and	Oldham	St Helens	Walsall
BRISTOL	Huddersfield	Salford	PLYMOUTH and	Southampton	Wolverhampton
Burnley	HULL	Middlesbrough	Stonehouse	SHEFFIELD	York

The Second Volume gives Local Trades' Directories for all Towns (excepting the above) and Villages of importance in England, grouped alphabetically under their various Counties, with the Forty Counties arranged in alphabetical order to facilitate reference; also all Towns and Villages of importance in WALES, grouped alphabetically under their various Counties, with the Twelve Counties arranged in alphabetical order. There is also the ISLE OF MAN and the CHANNEL ISLANDS, and a concise Gazetteer of England and Wales, giving the location, population, and other local statistics and historical references for the Cities, Towns, Parishes, and Villages, with Postal, Telegraphic, Railway, and Shipping information.

In the course of revising the Work, every Town and Village of importance in England and Wales, the Isle of Man, and the Channel Islands are visited annually by experienced Agents, solely employed by the Proprietors for the purpose of verifying, by personal application, every name appearing in the Directory. Thus every effort that can possibly be made by a large and efficient staff of compilers is put forth ungrudgingly, and regardless of trouble and expense, to bring the information up to date, and to ensure the correctness of the work.

PRESS OPINIONS.

Daily Telegraph (London)

Will be found invaluable for commercial reference. . . . and, judging by the way it continues to grow, a third tome will soon be necessary. It is claimed by the publishers that in the "English Directory" have been collected the names and addresses of more manufacturers, brokers, shippers, agents, and dealers than are to be found in any other work of the same character. As a means of bringing the producer into closer contact with the distributor and consumer, these volumes obviously possess great value.

Daily Chronicle (London)

"A NATION OF SHOPEEPEERS."—In these two great volumes a vigorous and painstaking attempt is made to place manufacturers and merchants in touch with likely customers in England, Wales, the Channel Islands, and the Isle of Man, without the need of reference to numerous local directories. We are not surprised to learn that the compilation in its present form represents the labour of several years. There is an ample index, with most useful street plans of London, Liverpool, Manchester, &c

Daily News (London)

A GIGANTIC DIRECTORY. — This enormous bulk will not appear surprising when we add that its aim is to furnish a Trades' Directory for the whole of England, the information being arranged under the headings of cities and towns, subdivided, however, in each instance under trades and professions. The compilation is one that must have involved a very large amount of labour and expense, and the practical utility of the volumes to the trading classes is sufficiently obvious.

Liverpool Mercury

A GREAT TRADES' DIRECTORY.—One of the most valuable works of reference to commercial houses is an accurate and comprehensive trades' directory. Such is provided by Messrs Wm. Macdonald & Co., Ltd., who have just issued a new and considerably enlarged edition of their "English Directory and Gazetteer." The whole work embraces authentic lists of the professions, trades, and businesses of some 6000 cities, towns, and villages in England, Wales, the Isle of Man, and the Channel Islands. Thus it will be seen that the scope of the work is as wide as it well could be. As regards its accuracy, it need only be said that agents are sent annually to all the places of importance to verify the statements given.

Manchester Guardian

Amongst the continually increasing and more and more complex trade directories published, a very prominent place must be given to "Macdonald's English Directory and Gazetteer." The work is in two volumes, each containing about 3000 pages, and its general character may be indicated by the statement that the publishers claim that it is the only trades directory which embraces the whole of England. Commercial travellers and the issuers of trade circulars may well be grateful for what is provided for them. The work is a marvel of enterprise, and is likely to prove exceptionally useful to a multitude of specialist producers and distributors.

Manchester Courier

It is the largest directory in the English language, and contains the names and addresses of manufacturers, merchants, traders, brokers, agents, dealers, and others connected with British trade and commerce. The work reflects much credit on the care, industry, and patience employed by its compilers.

Birmingham Daily Gazette

As the only trades directory which embraces the whole of England, this work will be fully appreciated by manufacturers and merchants whose business relations extend all over the country. Hitherto they have been compelled to purchase a number of books to enable them to keep in touch with their distant customers, and the want of a comprehensive work has been strongly felt. To meet this urgent need has been the object of the compilers of these weighty volumes, which will be found invaluable in every merchant's office, saving time, space, and money.

Lloyd's Weekly Newspaper (London)

The plan of the work is to give authentic lists of persons in professions, trades, and businesses in upwards of six thousand towns and cities of England, Wales, and the Channel Islands. The checks we have been able to make shew the work to be accurate, and it should prove an immense saving in trouble and money to business men.

Birmingham Daily Mail

Contains a carefully compiled list of merchants and manufacturers, as well as other information of great value to business men.

Financial News (London)

The bulk of the "London Post Office Directory" and "Burdett" is quite put in the shade by "Macdonald's English Directory and Gazetteer." This comprehensive publication is the largest directory in the English language. It is a wonderful compilation, indispensable to every counting-house and hotel commercial room. The price must be considered very cheap.

Daily Express (London)

These two bulky volumes contain a mine of useful information, simply arranged, and covering every county and borough in the kingdom. As a guide to the retail trade of the minor towns it is especially useful.

M. A. P. (London)

I have received a copy of this practical and valuable compilation. There can be nothing but praise for the manner in which it has been brought out and the conciseness and accuracy of its references. The success of former editions has enabled the publishers to add to the comprehensiveness and general utility of the present volumes; and busy business men will find the Gazetteer, which gives an alphabetical list of villages and towns, particularly useful and convenient.

Weekly Dispatch (London)

Manufacturers and traders throughout the kingdom have long appreciated the immense usefulness of this work, and recognised its remarkable accuracy. It is a monument of extraordinary careful labour, and should find a place in the office of every business man.

Referee (London)

Manufacturers and merchants will find "Macdonald's English Directory and Gazetteer" an exceptionally useful work of reference. Year by year it has been greatly extended, until it now comprises the whole of England and Wales. As a commercial guide it must be invaluable to all traders.

The Grocer (London)

This Directory, in two bulky volumes, claims to be the only trades directory embracing the whole of England. The publishers are, however, by no means novices in this special line of business, their "Irish" Directory being in its fifteenth year of publication, and their "Scottish" one in its twentieth. The present book represents many years of work and no small expenditure of capital, and we have little doubt will be fully appreciated by manufacturers and merchants. It presents a concise view of the business firms of England, bringing together information hitherto only accessible at great cost in many scattered volumes.

The Drapers' Record (London)

A COLOSSAL DIRECTORY.—It is a complete Trades Directory for the whole of England within the compass of two volumes, and as such is a unique production in the publishing world. The amount of work involved in such a publication must be prodigious. Manufacturers and merchants should find it a most useful directory,

Licensed Victuallers' Gazette (London)

In two large volumes, of something over 6000 pages in all, and each of the familiar size of the London Directory, here is a complete trade directory of England and Wales. The reviewer, at present staying in a small seaside place on the south coast, has personally verified its local exactness, and has not a fault to find. The work is a model of painstaking, and gives the trader the gist, in commercial matters, of all the town and county directories.

The Ironmonger (London)

The attempt to include within two volumes (portly though they undoubtedly are) the data relating to the general trades of the whole of England is a bold one, but on the whole the experiment may be considered fairly successful. Naturally the publishers do not pretend to give every village or small township in the land, but all places of a few thousand inhabitants seem to have been noticed, and for busy people with limited library accommodation it is a distinct advantage to have information of this kind in two instead of, say, twenty volumes. The type is bold and clear, and the general arrangement convenient for rapid reference.

The Insurance Record (London)

This colossal work, which may be regarded as an indispensable classic for merchants, tradesmen, manufacturers, and the large body of commercial dealers to whom it is of the utmost importance to be acquainted with "who's who," and where to find him when wanted, becomes greater in bulk and consequently of greater utility each succeeding year. The latest edition marks another step forward on the successful road the proprietors have travelled for some years past, and is a monument of what perseverance and energy can accomplish. To insurance companies' officials, as to all business men, the volumes should prove of great practical utility.

The Meat Trades Journal (London)

A WONDERFUL BOOK.—These two massive volumes represent the best attempt yet made to give in directory form a comprehensive work embracing England, Wales, the Channel Islands, and the Isle of Man.

Bradford Daily Telegraph

The Directory in its present form represents the work of many years, and the expenditure of a large amount of capital. The Gazetteer has been greatly extended, and will be found invaluable for commercial reference.

What Public Librarians say:—Bristol Public Library—"It is in constant request by our very numerous readers."
High Wycombe Public Library—"Has been very useful."
West Bromwich Public Library—"Has been very useful in the past, and appreciated by the public."
Hove (Sussex) Public Library—"Has been very well used and appreciated."

Leeds Mercury

A GREAT DIRECTORY.—“Macdonald's English Directory” is a gigantic work in two volumes, the two forming a load for an office-boy. It is a gazetteer as well. By a simple plan, reference is made easy to any part of the contents. So far as we can judge by towns we know, great care has been bestowed upon the preparation of these great volumes, which are brought as near to date as possible. For such a mass of information, the price must be regarded as very moderate.

Sheffield Independent

The two bulky volumes that comprise this publication must be a veritable godsend to merchants and manufacturers whose business relations extend all over the country. For it contains alphabetical and classified lists of all the principal manufacturers, merchants, traders, and shippers in all the chief cities, towns, and trade centres throughout England, and, moreover, is so capitally arranged, so clearly printed, and so firmly bound as to render the task of reference to its pages easy and profitable.

Western Daily Press (Bristol)

A work consisting of two volumes, and containing about three thousand pages in each volume, may fairly be described as a marvellous enterprise. The work is clearly divided, the first volume being made up of a trades' directory of London and about three hundred suburban districts, and a separate trades' directory for each of the principal provincial cities and towns, of which over forty are dealt with; while the second volume is devoted to all other towns, with villages of importance. A handy gazetteer is given, which contributes to the completeness of an undertaking of colossal proportions.

Newcastle Chronicle

We have not had this huge volume placed upon the scales, but it is of great avoirdupois, though not beyond the lifting strength of a well-nourished office-boy. This valuable book is now being issued in two volumes, the second one alone containing some three thousand pages. It is a trade directory of the entire kingdom, and is invaluable for manufacturers and merchants who wish to see at a glance the names of the persons in any town or village engaged in any particular profession, trade, or business.

South Wales Daily News (Cardiff)

The work is divided into two stupendous volumes of over 3000 pages each, strongly bound, and admirably indexed. In order to indicate the enormous range of the information given in the directory, it may be mentioned that it includes authentic lists of the professions, trades, and businesses of upwards of 6000 cities, towns, and villages in England and Wales, the Isle of Man, the Channel Islands, and a concise gazetteer of England and Wales, giving a great deal of useful information.

The Northern Whig (Belfast)

It represents a great amount of well-directed and well-organised labour. That it should be so will be self-evident from the statement that it is the only trades' directory which embraces the whole of England. There is also a very comprehensive gazetteer. The volumes are strongly bound, and are printed in exceedingly good style. The evident care with which it has been drawn up adds, of course, greatly to its high value.

The Yorkshire Post (Leeds)

Completeness and accuracy throughout such a colossal work are, of course, impossible, but the greatest care has evidently been taken to reach both, and it bears, as well as most directories of smaller scope, the test of local knowledge. It is intended especially for traders having business relations in all parts of the country, who, without it, would be obliged to burden their offices with a large number of directories.

Sheffield Daily Telegraph

The true test of any directory is to turn up your own town and other places with which you are familiar. Tried by this test, we have found Macdonald's Directory remarkably accurate. Although in several of the trades it is not so comprehensive as a local work would be, it is comprehensive enough for all practical purposes. In its particulars of rural districts in our immediate neighbourhood it is also quite reliable.

Citizen (London)

We are pleased to welcome a new edition of these most useful volumes. It certainly is one of the most complete directories we have yet seen, its over 6000 pages being replete with information simply invaluable to the business man. The usefulness of the volumes are further enhanced by the addition of a gazetteer. Printed on capital paper and bound in red cloth, the volumes make an imposing addition to the commercial bookshelf; in fact, we would advise Messrs Kelly to look to their laurels with such an important Richmond in the field. The volumes, we understand, are unique in their conception, being the only ones of the kind published. We have no doubt that they will receive the support that they deserve.

Western Mail (Cardiff)

The compilation of a trades' directory for the whole of England and Wales must have involved an amount of work and organisation calculated to deter any but the most sanguine and enthusiastic of men from embarking on a task of such magnitude. Nevertheless, the work has been accomplished, and we have now before us two bulky volumes. A more useful book of reference for merchants, manufacturers, and traders of every description cannot well be imagined.

Western Daily Mercury (Plymouth)

The issue of this well-known and deservedly popular work marks quite an event in many business houses, so accustomed have they been to rely upon its regular appearance, and so implicitly is it trusted to supply the right information at the right moment. Such an exhaustive list of names and addresses entitles the great Scotch house to claim, as they do claim, for this publication that it is the largest directory in the English language.

Leicester Daily Mercury

The Directory embraces the whole kingdom, and has apparently been prepared with great care. It is thus invaluable in the office, and it is so bound that reference to any town or county is quite easy, and there are maps which add considerably to the utility of the work. We commend it to the notice of business and professional men.

The Scotsman (Edinburgh)

An enormous book in two volumes, which gives a usefully arranged, and carefully edited trades' directory of the whole of England. It has already its established place in the counting-houses of manufacturers and merchants whose business is wide, and the present edition calls for no other remark than that it brings the information of the book well down to date.

Glasgow Herald

Consists of two huge volumes, and contains an immense amount of information, carefully collected and conveniently arranged in classified lists. It deals with the professions, trades, and businesses of upwards of 6000 cities, towns, and villages in England and Wales, the Isle of Man, and the Channel Islands, and is practically equal to a whole shelf-full of local and county directories.

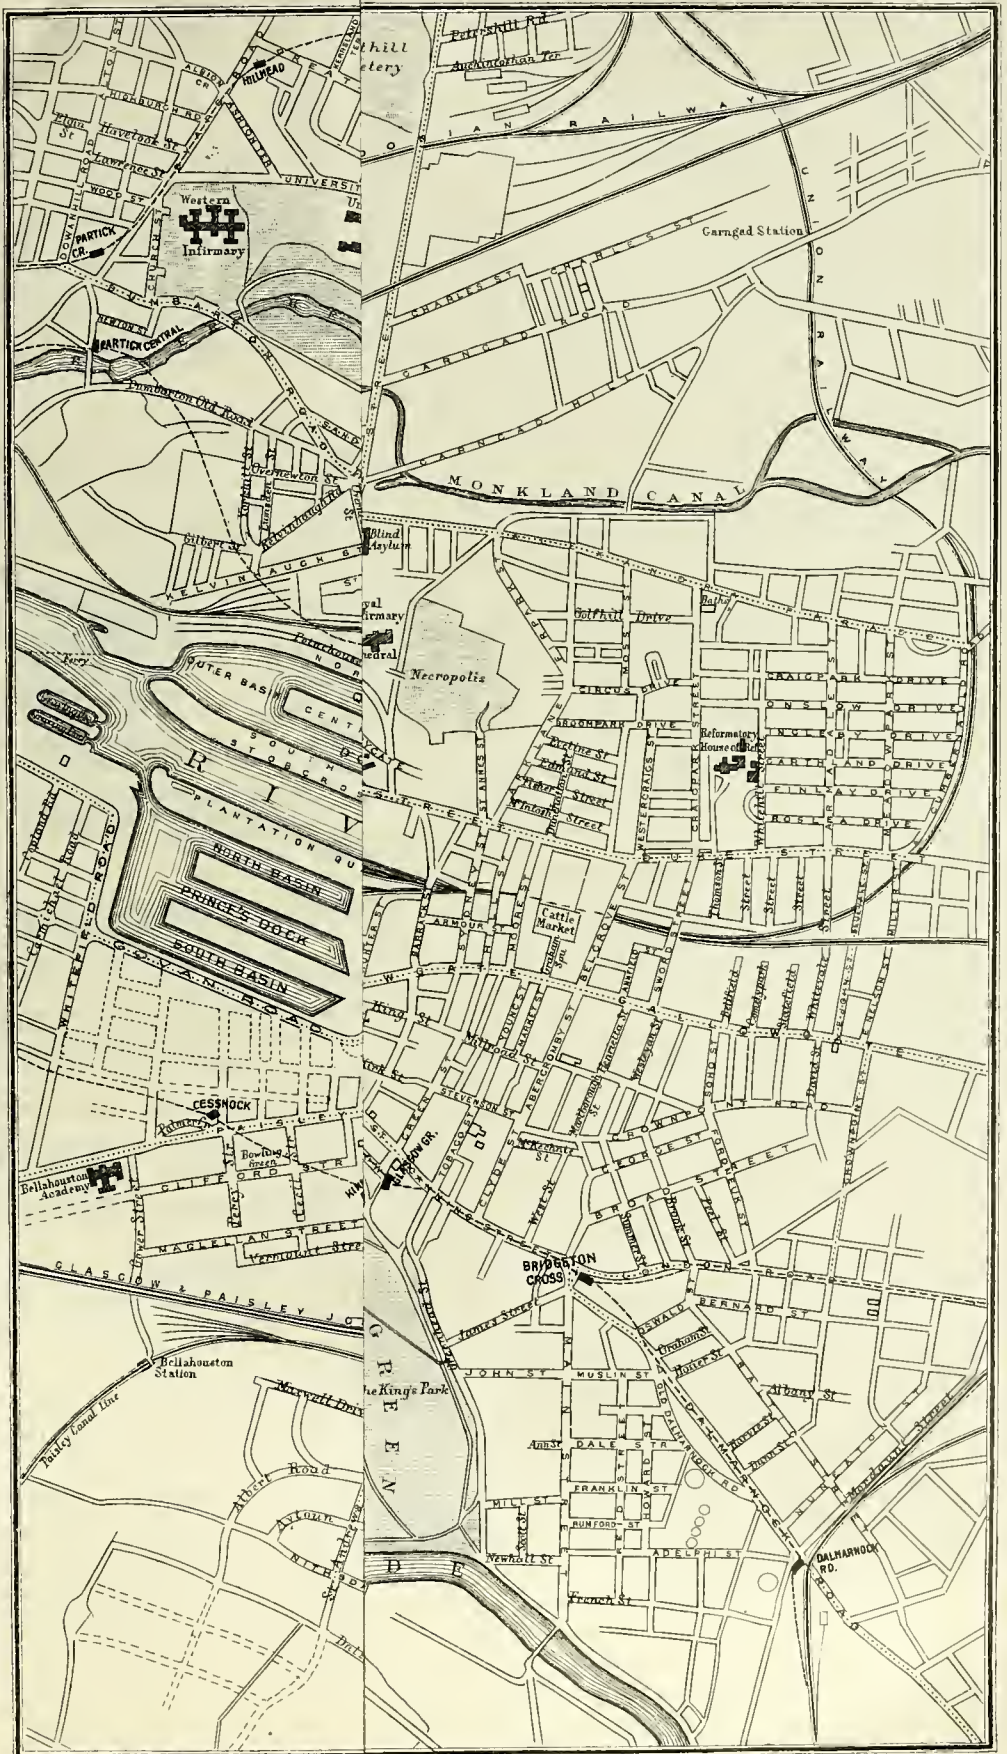

The Daily Record (Glasgow)

Amended and extended to include the latest information. The book, which is now in two volumes, each of over 3000 pages, is a guide to the places of business of all England, and must have cost a great amount of labour, not to speak of money, in compilation. The whole publication bears evidence of great care having been expended upon its preparation.

Dundee Advertiser

This is the only trades' directory which embraces all England. Formerly its proportions were such that the publishers had to arrange for the present edition being in two volumes. These are very large, but they are beautifully arranged, the side index in varied colours enabling the user to turn to any town in a moment. Business circles should find the volumes invaluable.

What Public Librarians say:—Oxford, Town Hall—“Has proved very useful in our Reference room.” Barry (Glam.) Public Library—“Has been found of great service to the Commercial men of this town.” Hereford Public Library—“Very much used at this library.” Wrexham Public Library—“A valuable addition to the library.”
